Our Cover Page

The cover picture of Pastor Eric and Lilia was taken in Amsterdam, the Netherlands' capital. It features our cover because the moral culture of this historic and famous city is very different from our traditional Christian culture. It is one of the most liberal cities in the World.

How should we, as Christians, react to this type of city? After all, even in Amsterdam, it is supposed to have Christians and others who do not align with the immorality there. How can we, as Christians, live, preach, and face this cultural situation?

The question's relevance is that hate, judgment, or rejection may not contain a Christ-based reaction's totality. Hate and rejection is never the answer.

Can we preach the truth of God with a strong sense of condemnation of sin? Yes! Can we pray for those who believe entertainment is a senseless liberal society? Yes! Is it possible to be an example to others, as we loved them, and simultaneously be able to condemn and reject their sin publicly? Yes, according to Jesus of Nazareth in the gospels.

As Jesus prayed for His flock in the gospel of John chapter seventeen, he stated, "My prayer is not that you take them out of the World but that you protect them from the evil one" (John 17:15). This is why we must face the World reality even though we disagree with it. We should not hide from what is not right, but we must take seriously our responsibilities to be light in the middle of darkness (Ephesians 5:8) for the gospel's sake.

Women of Faith

The Women of Faith of Immanuel Lutheran Church wants to invite all women to attend a Bible study plan just for women! Both studies, Wednesday mornings at 10 am and Thursday evenings at 7 pm, look through Martin Luther's eyes at the song of Mary (The Magnificat) from Luke, chapter 1. Study guides for "My Soul Magnifies the Lord" are available for $15. It's never too late to join us!

A New Coordinator for the Food Pantry

We are more than happy to announce that we have a new Food Pantry Coordinator, Mr. Kris Tripp. In a welcoming communication, Mrs. Rosalyn (Roz) Miller, Director of the La Vernia Christian Food Pantry, a La Vernia Ministerial Alliance ministry, wrote, "Welcome Kris!! We are so happy that you are joining our fabulous team of leaders who work together to provide for our friends and neighbors in the LV community struggling to meet nutritional needs." As a church, we are blessed to count on Mr. Tripp, who, listening to God's calling, has said yes to such an important ministry for our community in general. We also want to welcome the proactive, Wonderful World of volunteers in Christ at Immanuel Lutheran Church. God Bless Your Ministry!

A Total Success the Children's Ministry

On Wednesday, September 27, 2023, the Immanuel Lutheran Church's Children Ministry, and the New Confirmation Class started our blessed Wednesday's Ministry. The event was a success, not just for the number of children and teachers but for the excitement reflected in all the groups. We want to recognize all the teachers and the Coordinator for Children's Education, Mrs. Renne Skull. To her, kudos in Christ! Remember, if you are part of the church and have children, please arrange to bring them to Wednesday's Children's Ministry.

Youth Ministry

"Whoever subscribes to me does not receive an L, for they have secured an eternal W."

For those not in the know, this is the Gen Z translation of "Whoever believes in me shall not perish but have eternal life" (John 3:16). But is it blasphemy? That's up for debate. Consider the following passage in St. Paul's letter to the Corinthians:

"Though I am free and belong to no one, I have made myself a slave to everyone to win as many as possible. ²⁰ To the Jews, I became like a Jew to win the Jews. To those under the law, I became like one under the law (though I myself am not under the law) to win those under the law. ²¹ To those not having the law, I became like one not having the law (though I am not free from God's law but am under Christ's law) to win those not having the law. ²² To the weak I became weak, to win the weak. I have become all things to all people so that by all possible means I might save some. ²³ I do all this for the sake of the gospel, that I may share in its blessings."

(1 Corinthians 9:19-23)

The gospel is too big and too good not to share, and kids need this gospel. So why speak the gospel in the current lingo? What's wrong with the tried-and-true versions? We must equip our children with that good news, reminding them that all Christians are commanded to share the gospel—including the young ones (Mark 16:15). Before our youth can explain the gospel, they must know it themselves. Then, they must know how to articulate it. Kids are talkative and talk to their friends about almost everything. Face-to-face evangelism can be scary, so technology is a significant blessing—it can provoke us to share the gospel more. Utilizing social media and cultural trends is functional as well. In some ways, our youth are more mature and have grown up in a faster-paced world with no time for quiet reflection. But in other, more critical ways, our youth are more childish than ever and need more protection and guidance in their faith and Christian education. As adults, it's worth it for us to learn the current terminology and be fluent in the media our children are using. Sharing the gospel through that media can reach so many that we should prioritize it rather than treat it as an afterthought.

And remember the old saying, "If you want to secure the eternal bag, Jesus and the Top G are W, Satan is mid."

How to Deal with Today's Moral Issues

By Pastor Eric M. Milette

Even though the Christian world tries hard to stand on doctrines, biblical truth, some emotionalism, or, in some rare cases, even deception, the struggle to define what a Christian ought to be is today's moral issue. In other words, no matter how much we try to move the identity narratives of Christianity to the sublime aspect of our traditions, what seems to matter is how we respond, in reality, to questions like, what should I do regarding what is right or wrong on human behavior. No matter how much we know the Bible or how much time and effort we put into our church's calendar, we are judged, loved, or hated for what we do and what stands we take on practical questions of our social and personal practices. Things like modern and liberal stands on gender, abortion, child education, perspectives on history, government credibility, and citizens' responses are for Christian, non-Christian, and others, a definitive statement on defining what a Christian should be. The challenge seems to be that, given the new approach to truth and reality, there are as many responses to these issues as people. So, our moral standards seem to be the deal-breaker factor in our Christian projection to others. So, the question is, how do we deal with today's ethical and moral issues so we can reflect Christ and be faithful to the undeserved privilege of being called Christians?

The answer to the last question is simple for Lutherans: it is impossible to please God or be a moral subject without grace and the Holy Spirit actively working in us. According to the Bible, we are all sinners. We all have fallen short of God's glory (Rom. 3:23). Furthermore, we are all condemned because sin and death came to humans after the fall in the Garden of Eden and before the Law. It is just through Christ's sacrifice that we achieved salvation (Rom. 5:12-19), but it is essential to remember that salvation is not obtained by human desire or effort but depends solely on God's mercy (Rom 9:16).

In the same way that salvation is not ours to obtain, but it is a gift from God (Eph. 2:8-9), being moral beings and acting ethically (because of our sinful nature -Rom. 5:8), it is not a matter of willingness or conscience but empowerment of God's Spirit working on us (Rom. 1-17). We are, then, surrendering our will to God; it is vital to be morally correct in our social stands and practical choices.

So, what else can we do to be morally righteous because of our sinful nature? What kind of responsibility do we have for our behavior? Dr. Martin Luther was not a systematic theologian. Therefore, he never developed a systematic ethical approach other than exposing believers to make moral choices in freedom. It does not take much for those who the Spirit leads to know that love is a moral imperative for Christians. Love for others: the lesser ones, the marginalized, those who do not look like us. Our moral choices and actions should always be aligned with Jesus Christ's teaching according to God's love and empathy.

Last, we should be able to align our moral being through the guidance of the Spirit to our moral doings. In other words, our practices could not be limited to public consumption but to our private lives. Good or bad, we are what we do primarily in confidential settings. May the good Lord help us all practice what we preach and be confident that we preach what we practice. After all, the moral stand of our nation and the world may depend on it.

God Bless You All!

Staff Transition at the NALC Staff: Rev. Dr. Wendel

After dedicating over a decade to the North American Lutheran Church as Assistant to the Bishop for Ministry and ecumenism, the Rev. Dr. David Wendel has announced his resignation effective at the end of September.

Pastor Wendel now feels called to serve more closely within a local congregation, addressing the pressing needs of vacancies and empty pulpits.

He has been instrumental in our church's growth and tirelessly worked to uplift the broader church community. He will continue to be involved in the NALC's ongoing ecumenical consultations.

"Having served with Pastor Wendel for the past four years, I have witnessed firsthand his passion for the Gospel, his commitment to the Church, and his love for the Lord Jesus," said Bishop Dan Selbo. "He has been a blessing to me and many, and his presence on our staff will be missed. We do, nonetheless, know that God will continue to use his gifts as he is now transitioning to full-time parish ministry, and thankful for his continued service with us in our ecumenical relationships."

We extend our heartfelt gratitude to Pastor Wendel for his unwavering commitment and service to the NALC. His contributions have undeniably enriched our community, and we pray for his continued success and blessings in his future endeavors.
